I just called my friend that retired in December from Purdue. Ex-DEA that managed the relationship with DEA during the OxyContin years and set up their SOM program. He was the one who went to visit pharmacies with Wholesalers. I attached benchmarking notes taken when JOM chatted with Purdue on the SOM program last year.

He met with sales force with Purdue
He also was the one that called DEA when Sales force found suspicious doctors.
Law dept gave SOM training to sales.

I am not sure the project scope – didn't give him any details but said you may call him.
Please do – you will enjoy it. He was widely respected in the New Jersey Pharmaceutical Industry Group.

Regards
Michele

I scanned my 9 pages of notes...

Up to you to compile a summary and share with JOM...

Nice job, don't you think?

Hello Michele and Mike:

I like the format we had yesterday.

Some opening comments and then a free-flowing Q&A.

This can be the beginning, in the sense that we can have as much follow-up as participants want.

I will spend as much time with you today as you want - 30 minutes may not be enough.

Steve Seid can fill in my gaps.

Some Background info:

Purdue enhanced its Order Monitoring Program (beginning) in (early) 2008

Formal order monitoring meetings with authorized distributors plus ongoing contacts (accounts for 95% + of Purdue product distribution) and meetings with DEA:

- AmerisourceBergen (ABC) – Sep 2008 & Nov 2011
- Cardinal – Dec 2008 & pending Spring 2012
- Valley Wholesale - January 2009
- JM Smith - April 2009 and April 2011
- HD Smith – May 2009
- ANDA – September 2009
- McKesson – May 2009 , March 2010 & March 2012
- Kinray – April 2010 (now Cardinal)
- Harvard – Spring and November 2010
- Value Drug – July 2011

- DEA – April 2009, April 2011 & October 2011

These wholesalers all have formal Suspicious Order Monitoring Programs - I can provide the contact information.

I conduct the on-going contacts with the wholesalers, and I do so by phone and email.

Looking forward to it.

Jack
